Landscaping Plan for NMF Enterprises

This landscaping project will seek to obscure the fence line of NFM Enterprise's I-502 operation with vines chosen to be compatible with the regional growing requirements.

The site plan above shows the fence line to be landscaped in red. The east side is hidden by an orchard and mature trees. The north side is obscured from view by a hedge row and mature trees. The areas needing additional landscaping will be on the west and south fence lines.

Hop vines are selected for this use because of their fast growth, ability to thrive in our regional climate and ability to provide good climbing cover for the fence. Hops are a perennial vine, in spring and summer they will be a foliage plant. By fall, the cone-like structures known as "strobiles" are apparent; these strobiles will afford winter interest.

Ideally, the hop rhizomes should be planted in early spring, no later than May. The rhizomes will need to be spaced approximately 4 feet apart. The length of fence line to be planted will be 585 feet so this will require around 150 rhizomes. These plants will develop excellent coverage for the fence over the course of the first growing season. The soil on the NMF site is well suited for hops and water needs are easily met by irrigation lines already in place to water the Timothy Hay crop and vegetable garden.
