Good Morning Spencer,

I think you need to talk to the County regarding your concerns. I have copied Kelly Bacon on this response as she is the local government contact for this project location. If I recall correctly we both have a few things to look into and will be providing additional information soon. I will provide my comments to Kelly as I provide technical assistance to the local government in the implementation of their CAO and I will address any Water of the State issues separately.

Respectfully,

Lori B White (she/her)

Lori:

I'm speaking with Josh, my business partner, about our meeting on the land today. I wasn't able to attend, but I would love to have a conversation with you when you get a chance. My cell is (585) 621-8000. I think there was a lot of information given to Josh and I'm not sure I am getting a clear understanding. I don't want to miss out on anything that we need to pay attention to, so that's why I would ask for the TC. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Spencer D. Parr (Video Intro)

COVID-19 UPDATE: Please be advised that our Washington law Center Attorneys and staff continue to work on your Personal Injury and Labor & Industries matters. We are taking emails (preferred) and phone calls from clients as they come. However, all of our WLC office locations are presently closed to foot traffic (including to current clients) in an effort to follow guidelines from the CDC and other healthcare authorities regionally. This social distancing effort may likely seem excessive to some, but because we do work for many people in vulnerable demographics, we have instituted this policy for their protection. If you have any questions or concerns about this policy, or any other issue, please feel free to contact Attorney Spencer Parr on his cell phone: (585) 621-8000. Texts (including your full name) are preferred. Please be well.
